"MEN'S BETTER WEAR"

PICK-UPS

Herbert J. Penneck, picking star of the New York Yankees, will have an opportunity of making a new record in World Series competition this year. Penneck's two victories in 1926 gave him a record of four victories without a defeat in World Series competition. The only pitcher who has a better Series record is John W. Coombs, former member of the Philadelphia Athletics who won five and lost none in the classics he took part in. Zachary, now with Washington, has won two without a defeat.

BASEBALL SEASON ENDS

PHILADELPHIA.—This week the 1927 professional baseball year will have run its course, and another year of the diamond sport will have ended. Those with the best interests of the sport at heart are wondering what a new year will bring. They have looked with considerable misgivings on what has transpired this year. There can be no question as to the game having fallen to a low estate. Unhappy have been assaulted with impunity, players subjected to foul abuse, spectators subjected to indignities, gamblers allowed to run riot, managers permitted to violate the rules to benefit themselves without regard to ethics of the game, and so infinitum. The game isn't what it used to be—what will be the end? Unless a new Moses rises to steer with a firm hand, there is likely to be an explosion that will shake the sport to its foundation and make franchise worth no more than the old German mark. The handwriting is on the wall. The awakening promises to be decidedly unpleasant.

CRATTAN BARS STEPS FASTEST THREE MILES

LONDON.—Oat-Harries men are again over the recent display of the Wheaton Bar. They have broken three-mile bars over recorded in Canada over a one-mile oval. Under mild urging the son of Crattan Royal was three straight miles in the 2:10 pace. The first heat in 2:07.13 made the horseman and followers gasp, but his second heat in 2:08.13 made them all squint at their watches a second time. He went easily in 2:09.14 in his third heat extended.

YANKIES SHOULD WIN SERIES

CHICAGO.—Although the Pirates have not as yet officially won the National League pennant race they are as good as home and many wagers are now being recorded on the big world's series. The Yanks at present rate favorites at odds of 12 to 10.

The first big wager recorded was $12,000 against $10,000 that Miller Huggins' men would take down a majority of the games from the boys from smoke town. Should Pittsburgh stumble and fail to win out, this wager is cancelled.

Commission merchants do not expect to handle as much money on the world's series this year as in previous years. Pittsburgh fans were looking in sentiment, while the gamblers do not figure that the Pirates will be able to beat Ruth Co.

Odds of 12 to 10 will prevail for the opening game. Should the Pirates win the opener they will be even money favorites for the series. Backers of the Yanks figure this team can get the Pirates to a one-game lead, a leg come back.

When the teams take the field the opener it is likely that the odds will be as great as 3 to 2 on the side with the Pirates on the short end. If Chicago been able to capture it, it is estimated that more than $2,000,000 would have been wagered on the series.

The National League team will have the advantage, whatever edge it gets of playing the opening games at home while the Yanks will have three of the next games on its own ground. Should the series go beyond five games it will be finished on the National League diamond. This advantage more sentimental than real, for Cardinals clinched the championship in New York last season after not doing so well at home.

pared with $2,000,000 in 1925, accompanied with a 12.66 per cent increase in the amount of the harvest. The extent of 121,220,000 feet was shipped by water to world markets, compared with 109,000,000 feet in 1925. This constituted more than 90 per cent of the entire water-borne export lumber shipment from British Columbia in 1926. During 1926 there were 375 deep-sea ships that registered tonnage of 579,735 as compared with 156 ships with 466,429 net tonnage in the previous year. In 1913 there were only ships with a net tonnage of 28,557.

SPORT NOVELS

Tunney-Dempsey Fight

CHICAGO.—The Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship fight had passed into history. It marked the zenith of prize-fighting promotion in this country. Designed to extract $100,000 from the pockets of the sport-loving public it failed of its purpose, but it enriched enough people in such a luscious way that it is doubtful if it can ever be duplicated. The spectacle was launched for only one purpose—to get the money.

Little attention was paid to the sporting side of it and none to the wellbeing of the public. The seating arrangement was made with a view of crowding the largest number of people at the highest price they would pay. The two fighters were signed—not to settle the burning question as to their relative superiority—but because they would bring the most money to the gate. Illinois' regulations concerning the control of boxing and promoters were trampled under the hooves of "big business" that was concerned only with making the thing sell.

The aftermath is yet to be seen, but indications are that the match put a stop to boxing in this state from which it will be a long time before the vice is again spread to other states in a manner that will not rebound to the benefit of the sport.

When big business, politics, gamblers and a certain class of the sporting element get together anything is likely to happen. Usually the pocketbook of the general public is "murdered." The Carpenter-Dempsey bout went into the record-books as the "Battle of the Century." The Tunney-Dempsey match at Philadelphia as the "Sesqui-Centennial Fiasco." Thursday's night battle at Chicago will be remembered as the "Lost of Chicago." In all of its phases, it can be considered nothing else. The fact that the promoters over-reached themselves and failed to profit as much as they expected is beside the question—what took everything out of the city but the Buckingham Fountain, especially only leaving the behind for the War Department would order it melted.

That Gene Tunney retained the world's championship, was assuredly one result of a much more active brain than that possessed by Jack Dempsey. In the seventh round Dempsey landed a real one and according to the referee Gene did not know for a few seconds whether he was in Chicago or New York.

Jack caught him on the ropes and played for the body with both hands. Tunney dropped Jack with a left to the jaw, but he bounced up without a count. Gene forced the fighting and put back the body. Jack had slowed up now. Tunney crossed three lefts to the face. They swapped rights to the face.

Both Jack's eyes were badly cut. The blow which hit Dempsey in the midst of the round was a right that caught him off balance. He went to one knee.

Round Nine Dempsey attacked and fished with his right. He caught Gene in the head. Gene put a left right to the head, and they were wrestling about the ring. Jack put two rights to the body and clinched his right to the head in a clinch. Gene jabbed two lefts to the face. Dempsey missed a right in the face and Gene got in a right hook to the face.

PICTURES SHOW TUNNEY DOWN 14 SECONDS

CHICAGO, Ill.—Moving pictures of the Dempsey-Tunney fight showed that Tunney was down in the seventh round for 14 seconds officials of the Chicago Film Laboratory company, which developed the pictures made by the Goddard company of New York announced.

For part of the period, however, the pictures showed Dempsey standing over the champion, or in his own corner before he was waved to a far corner by the referee. The pictures showed Tunney went down after a right to the jaw.

Slow motion pictures of the contest, officials said, revealed no low blows by either contestant.

GROSS RECEIPTS OF FIST BATTLE ARE $2,658,840

CHICAGO, Ill.—Gross receipts of the Dempsey-Tunney fight were announced by Tex Rickard, promoter, as $2,658,840.

The attendance was not announced, but this figure indicated that a total of about 140,000 persons saw the fight. The receipts exceeded the total of the first Dempsey-Tunney fight at Philadelphia by $783,660; the Carpenter-Dempsey fight at Jersey City, N. J., by $1,032,088, and the first Dempsey fight at New York, by $1,516,676.

WORLD'S SERIES DATES ANNOUNCED

CHICAGO, Ill.—The world's series will start October 2 in the home city of the winner of the National League pennant.

Two games will be played there, three games in New York, which has already won the American League pennant, and the remaining one or two games, if needed to decide the series, in the National league city.

If Pittsburgh wins the National League pennant, the third game of the series will be played in New York, Oct. 7. If St. Louis wins, it will be played Oct. 8.

Games will start at 1:30 p.m. standard time, except for the Sunday game in New York, which will start at 2:03 p.m.

Hour of distress that Tunney proved his real worth.

It was a great fight and both gave all they had. Tunney, contrary to expectations, used his right far better than his left and did far more leading than in his previous meeting. Dempsey played for the body throughout and scored frequently in the mid-section, especially in the clinches. Dempsey put up a good fight, no better than last year, and this alone proves that Tunney is a brilliant fighter.

Jack Dempsey, surrounded by his admirers in the dressing room before the fight, refused to make a charge that Gene Tunney was given the benefit of a box count.

"If Gene got the benefit of the count, that was one of the breaks of the game, that was all," said Jack.

Gene Tunney: "For the first time in my life I was knocked completely off my feet. Jack Dempsey did it, and I can't say I enjoyed the sensation. I don't think it will ever happen again."

COURT FAILS TO GIVE HUSBAND DIVORCE

CLEVELAND, O.—Capt. Herman M. Archer, hero in fact of Richard Harding Davis' novel, "Mc. Archer, U.S.A.," was declared a divorce court found that infraction of Archer's own set of army rules for soldier's wife did not constitute grounds for divorce. Instead the court has ordered Mrs. Archer a divorce.

Capt. Archer, soldier of fortune changed Mrs. Archer with willful abuse.

The decision held that evidence did not show she had been abused willfully from her husband; that when Archer was moved from one army post to another she followed him and taught dancing to help earn a living.

Instead, the opinion of the court held that Archer, as he gained fame as an author and attracted to the army ranking lists to captivity, "ceased to be proud of his wife and deserted her."

Capt. Archer, Princeton university. Some of his rules for a soldier's wife included:

"Who can't feel skittish about her old man not turning up, or worry though he is out with another girl."

"If he promoted and she is taking in laundry, she must continue to take in laundry."

Good Outlook For Trade In Canada Seen

OTTAWA—Confidence in a normal upturn of business activity in Canada for the balance of the year has become fairly general. With the volume of employment being maintained at a high level, a tempo, far from in prospect, and every indication of a good grain yield, there is much to encourage the belief that an unusually busy and prosperous season lies ahead.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics in its monthly survey states that the volume of Canadian business showed a moderate recession in July as compared with the high level attained during preceding months. The index of the physical volume of business maintained by the Bureau was 159.3 in July as compared with 159.8 in the preceding month.

Greater activity was shown in the mining industry, while the placing of a large contract gave the building industry the appearance of a large volume. Merchandise imports showed an increase. Employment in wholesale and retail trade indicated a good distribution of commodities, although car loadings showed recession. The chief declines were shown in manufacturing, in forestry and in bank debts.

Wholesale prices, on the average, declined slightly in July in contrast with substantial increases in the two preceding months. Trading on the stock markets was less active than in the preceding months as the year, and speculative prices were practically maintained.

Generally speaking, business during the last seven or eight months has been about 10 per cent more active than last year. This is borne out by the statement of the dollar volume of business represented by bank debits issued by the Government, total debits in the first seven months being about $1,000,000,000 greater than in the corresponding period of the year.

Some curtailment is reported in certain coal mining districts following a comparatively long summer period, but at other points work either has been resumed after the summer shut-down, or preparations are being made to repeat the mines in order to fill contracts on hand.

Mineral District Activity
The loss of price of silver has resulted in the closing of some mines, the output of which was from low-grade ore, but several companies can continue to operate profitably under present conditions. There is marked activity in all the mineral districts of British Columbia.

From every point in the Prairie provinces, reports indicate excellent progress with the cutting of the 1927 grain crop. Ideal weather during the last week has brought about a striking change in fields that were slightly green. In many districts where grain ripened early, threshing is well advanced, and in some instances completed.

Small shipments of the new crop have been dribbling into country elevators, the high grades and good yields resulting leading straight to early estimates of a bumper western crop. One load of Marquis wheat shipped from the Experimental Farm at Indian Head Saskatchewan, weighed 64 pounds to the bushel.

The Quebec Government's official crop bulletin just issued indicates that while there is a delay in the crop, the conditions are generally very satisfactory, and in many cases the good output of 1926 will be exceeded.

Orders Show Increase
The majority of wholesalers and manufacturers report that orders received are more numerous now than at the corresponding time last year, those for Christmas goods showing a marked increase.

The retail trade continues to show stability. Buying power shows no diminution and the volume of goods moving over the counter is up to expectations. Stocks on hand are comparatively small.

FARMER MEMBER DESIRED

WINNIPEG—Appointment of a western farmer to the board of railway commissioners in place of Commissioner Boyce, whose term will expire in October, is being urged by the Canadian Council of Agriculture in communication that have been forwarded to the federal government.

There are six members of the board and five are from the east only one Hon. Frank Oliver being from the west. There is no farmer on the board or anyone who could be described, strictly speaking, as a representative of the agricultural industry. J. Ward, secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, stated in making the appeal that it would be a much better balanced board if some person directly representing the agricultural industry was a member and there were more western members.

"Labor is represented on the board," said Mr. Ward, "and Commissioner Lawrence is really the representative of the railway employees. While men on the board do not just represent a particular class, as it is a national organization working in the interests of the country generally, yet the board should be representative of the country as a whole, and the Canadian Council of Agriculture thinks there ought to be more western members and also some who would represent agriculture."

The council has also suggested that the membership of the board should be enlarged to seven, and that at least three members should be from western Canada. The reason is that with six members as at present the board is somewhat equally divided. This change cannot be made without special legislation, but the board is urging that this be introduced so that at least one western farmer be appointed to the position that will be vacated next month by Commissioner Boyce.

WORLD CENSUS OF AGRICULTURE PLANNED IN 1930

WASHINGTON—For the first time in history a world agricultural census will be made available in 1930, it is expected, under the direction of the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, according to Leon M. Estabrook, director of the project and chairman of the United States Crop Reporting Board.

As a result of the census it is expected that data will be made available covering the most important agricultural products in practically all of the countries of the world where facilities for the work exist.

Mr. Estabrook has devoted most of the past 14 months to travel in order to discuss with authorities in the several nations the project, its execution and results expected. He has visited every Capital in Europe and North Africa finding everywhere willingness of officials to cooperate with the institute's plan. The Orient is the next region to be covered in the interest of the census.

In several instances the census will be the first attempt at comprehensive crop and livestock estimating these countries ever made, and will involve the establishment of practically new government organizations. In other countries existing machinery must be expanded somewhat and a certain amount of change in method appears necessary in order to have results conform to the standard census schedules prepared by the institute under Mr. Estabrook's direction.

Where any doubt regarding wholehearted participation in the plan has been expressed, the doubt has arisen with respect to the possibility of a lack of sufficient public funds rather than from a lack of interest in the project itself.

Information collected by the International Institute of Agriculture indicates that only 37 countries have taken an agricultural census during the last 25 years. These countries represent less than half the land area and about 30 per cent of the population of the world.

THE GREAT WATERWAYS SCHEME

(Washington, Correspondent, New York Times)

This is one of the most ambitious undertakings in the engineering history of North America. The cost, if the American and Canadian governments come to an agreement and the project is completed, will be about $100,000,000. It proposes a route to the sea through Lakes Huron, Erie and Ontario and the St. Lawrence river to tidewater at Montreal. Statesmen, engineers, financiers and industrialists have dreamed of such a route for more than a generation. But the enormous cost, the long-drawn-out international negotiations involved have to date prevented the starting of the actual work.

While the total cost is put at about half a billion dollars, it is believed by eminent engineers, among them Secretary Hoover and Major-General J. W. Ward, that the cost will be recovered through the leasing or the operation of the huge power plants that would be a part of the system. The actual cost thereafter to the government is estimated at less than $200,000,000. The waterways will bring mid-America 600 miles nearer to Europe than that section is brought by the New York route.

Fears Called Unfounded
There is opposition to the St. Lawrence route, first from those who believe that it will injure railroads the most by cutting off the traffic from the lakes to the seaboard; second, from certain American cities that take the position that its construction would divert their commerce to the northern route via Montreal. These fears are unfounded is the contention of the engineers who have given the subject years of study.

An analysis of the traffic now moving between the lakes and seaboard by rail indicates, they assert, that the diversion would amount to less than 5 per cent of the rail business, so vast is the international traffic. A study of the annual business over these railways forecasts that by the normal growth of the nation in the next twelve years the railway traffic will increase 20 per cent, even though the shipping is authorized and built.

"I know of nothing," says Secretary Hoover, "that should so appeal to the imagination of the people of North America as the final consummation of the struggle of generations to open the Great Lakes as a part of 'The St. Lawrence'." It is the need of a vast inland empire whose people have a right to every contribution that can be made to their welfare and their prosperity. However intricate the question may be which are involved in these international relations, I am confident they can be solved upon the simple foundation of broad mutual understanding and good will."

That there is little hope of Alberta coal coming to Ontario under this rate, "There is no use bringing it in here," he stated, "unless it can be bought for $7.00 or less. At over seven dollars, it cannot compete with anthracite or coke. Candidly, I don't think they will try to bring it in. In any event, it is too high an out-of-pocket cost."

Does Not Mean Anything

Mr. Ellis expressed the belief that the finding of the railway board "did not mean anything," it was, he said, "merely an expression of opinion, and the railways were in no sense bound to it." Continuing, he stated that it was doubtful if the railways would haul it at even the $7.22 figure.

J. Earle Lawson, solicitor representing the Ontario Government at the probe, expressed the opinion that the findings of the board are more or less in favor of the province. He stated that the Ontario Government expects assumed that any figure under $7.00 from the board would allow a movement of coal on a competitive basis.

PAT O'HOOLEY SPINS A BIG ONE

"Listen, boys I'll bet I can tell you the champagne story of the year," said Pat O'Hooley, leaning back in his chair and surveying a bunch of cronies gathered in Cottrill's office. "Why shouldn't you?" returned Larry Donovan. "Your 'th' champagne last?"

"But this is no lie!" said Pat indignantly. "Mr. Sam Macchelli is no mortuary for what I'm saying—my ye all know Sam! It's was of this extraordinary circumstances where truth is written that fiction."

"Let's hear the yarn, Pat," cried several in chorus. "Well, to begin with, did any of youse hear what happened to Mr. Macchelli last week?" asked Pat, leisurely filling his pipe.

"As nobody had heard, Pat litared his clay and continued: "His party near lost his lotie; an' 'twas all on account of the biggest crop of wheat this side of purgatory. He cut wan hundred acres of Kentucky wheat an' took 500 pounds of twine to the 'th' bundles."

"Oh, go on with your nonsense!" snorted Donovan. "Do you expect us to believe that?" "Wain ye're through wid th' yarn, Mr. Donovan, I'll continue," said Pat severely. "As I was sayin', Mr. Macchelli used up party near wan hundred pounds of twine tying up a hundred-acre field of wheat. Th' stocks are sixty-five tall, an' so thick ut puzzles a rabbit to git through 'em. I've seen wid wid me own eyes. Ut took Sam and four min three weeks to cut an' stook th' grain; an' fer safety, they worked from th' far side toward house—always keepin' th' house in sight. While they finished, Sam remembaers he'd left th' water jug a few yards down from th' fence, an' out he goes after ut. By gorry, that was purty risky, seein' th' wheat was so thick, an' they didn't see poor Sam any more that night. They couldn't avise him hear th' sound, an' for thirty-three hours he wanders about, not bein' able to see ten feet ahead of him, until he was most starved. He'd bin there yit a week, if the lads hadn't built a fire an' been cookin' some bacon—Sam is a dear layer of bacon—an' his nose saved him. In. At last, when they hears a trushin' among th' stooks, an' Sam breaks into view on th' dead run. Wid a sandwich in both hands, he begins tellin' 'em about th' crop gone widout-five bushels to th' acre—if it can be trashed in safety; but fer him Pat he seems avise ut to go. He field again widout a rope on his leg an' somebwan by th' fence holdin' on to ut. Now th' th' devil they're goin' to get that grain in th' elevator is more than I know."

HABITANTS HELPING TO FILL CANADA'S "EMPTY SPACES"

VANCOUVER—The French Canadian habitant has assisted in Canada's land problems and under-population by "raising large families of healthy, vigorous sons and daughters, teaching them to settle on the farm and forest lands of the Dominion." J. A. Pothier, vice-president of the Montreal Chamber of Commerce, told the delegates to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce convention.

With the French-Canadian population doubling every 30 years, Mr. Pothier predicted that by 1950 they would outnumber the English-speaking Canadians.

Tracing the history of the French Canadian, the speaker declared that beside being artisans, colonizers and farmers, they had contributed to Canadian achievement in arts.

At the present time there are approximately 1,500,000 French-Canadians in the United States, Mr. Pothier stated, but at the present time the rate of immigration is greater than the emigration.

"This reaction should be encouraged and steps should be taken not only to prevent emigration to the United States, but to bring them back to the home land."

BEWARE, THE CANADIANS ARE COMING

CHICAGO—Here is a new slogan that should be posted in grain exchanges and commission rooms throughout the United States:

"Beware, the Canadians Are Coming."

These same Canadians, acting, it is believed, in concert with shrewd speculators who were on the inside of the last Canadian crop report, are credited with giving the coterie of big operators who string along with Julius Barnes of the worst "cleaning" that has happened since the close of the war.

Trades of one big house, with headquarters in Kansas City, were "taken over"—meaning that they had secured liquidation of millions of bushels of wheat and corn—and report has it that several other houses of the same connections were at least shaky and on the point of going out of business.

Tremendous developments occurred since the last American and Canadian crop reports. Canadian interests developed the Chicago pits with selling orders and it is reported that over thirty million bushels of wheat were short sold by these interests. Then came the big smash.

Mr. Barnes himself, the shrewd manager of the Grain Corporation during the war, is said to have been committed, personally and with associates, to such an extent that the resulting losses following the gigantic liquidation and speculative runs during and after the war.

The weak in corn was the most drastic liquidation known in years. Traders in Chicago were caught between two great movements. Many sold corn on a pyramidical scale downward and fortunes were lost when a rally of 11c a bushel came. Then with short lines covered, owing to a frost scare, a break of seven cents over night all but took the local bankroll. All of which justifies the advice given to "KEEP OUT OF THE GRAIN MARKET."

It was a momentous victory for Canada. Traders here are still wondering what the big idea was for their information it is.

Europe must buy some wheat in the United States, despite Canadian general wheat crop. It was generally known that big interests which follow the price predictions of Julius Barnes and others were committed heavily in the U. S. wheat futures.

Short selling put the market in shape for a terrific blow, which came on schedule. It was easy for the foreigners to cover their short wheat and actually buy for long account—which is exactly what was done.

That enabled Europe to buy some cheap wheat here, also it corrected the strained condition of the market and put it in fine shape for a fine advance later, on which the Canadian pool will again market its wheat at a fine price and thereby continue to dominate wheat conditions in North America.

Local Jottings :-

The many threshing outfits in the district are all being put in working condition, and a number of new machines have been purchased. Providing sufficient labor is available, and the weather is favorable, the golden grain of the district will soon be reaped in the elevators, and business conditions throughout the Bow Valley very greatly improved as a result.

Mr. Ashley, who had his hip broken, is slightly improved at the Calgary Hospital.

Bill Thorne was giving a stranger the once over at the King Edward Hotel, who had been booking Dempsey, much to Bill's disgust. "What do you think of that fellow?" asked one of the arm-chair guests. "Oh, I wouldn't say he would steal," said Bill, "but if I was a chicken, I would roost high while he remained in town."

Frederal Fucker, who has the distinction of being the only "devil" in the Standard Office, when John Mackenzie first broke into the publishing game at Strathmore, was a victor last Thursday, and recalled the first job that was given to him to act as "motor" on the big newspaper press. This was too much for him, and Jack came to the rescue, stating that it was quite "easy." "However, I noticed," said Falconer, "that after Jack had put through about fifteen copies, that he received a hurry up call to go down town to meet a man at the King Edward Hotel, and when he returned he was accompanied by a very bulky dandy, who weighed about two hundred and twenty pounds. The colored gentleman started on the job and after the usual and pulling, heady puffing, he stopped and put on his coat, remarking to Jack 'I say boss, I don't quit, you do not need a man, what you require is a damned good engine'."

Reports from the Calgary Hospital on Wednesday were very encouraging in regard to Mrs. Nell White, who is getting along fully as well as could be expected.

Mrs. Arnold Fraser has opened a Beauty Parlor in the Strathmore Hotel.

"Jim" Truckman, of Calgary, was in Amport the day the Amport Chronicle published the item about Bill Thorne's wonderful fishing results on the Madawaska River, and through a conversation with Bill's brother learned that Bill's reputation as a fisherman is "busted". The brother maintaining that all Bill ever did was to catch the old father's dog.

Two of the sisters from the LaCombe Home have been in town, making their annual call on the district, and large extensions in connection with the Home have been under consideration, pending the securing of the necessary funds with which to proceed.

Mrs. Nell White, who was injured in her automobile accident, was moved to a Calgary Hospital, and under x-ray examination it was found that she had suffered quite severe fractures, but that she is now making a fine recovery will be glad news for her many friends.

Lester Jones visited his brother, Carl, at Bassano Hospital on Friday, and found him making a fine recovery, and he expects to be able to leave the hospital in about a week.

Eddie Crellin, pitcher for the local baseball team, received an offer of a situation if he would join the Coronation team. However, it did not appeal to him, and he is likely to remain here for this season at least.

The members of the Tennis Club are certainly enthusiastic in regard to the big Haftewen's Masquerade Dance, which is a real reputation last year.

Jim Weir, "and we are not going to fall down this year. Keep that day open or you will be sorry."

The many friends of Alex Gray, of the Canadian Pacific Irrigation Department, were surprised to learn of his marriage at Regina on Tuesday, to Miss Douglas, and are awaiting the return of the happy couple, to extend their congratulations. It is rumored that this happy event is the sequel to a long and arduous trip in social and possibly accounts for the enthusiasm expressed at that time by the popular blacksmith, for everything he saw and heard while in the land of Bolshun. Everyone who lived in wishing Alex and his bride health and happiness in no small measure.

Roy Green, of Bowling Green, Ohio, was in town on Wednesday. Mr. Green is involved in the Valley land, and is very enthusiastic over the crop conditions, and hopes that good weather will follow for the threshing season.

CANADA'S WHEAT EXPORTS
WINNIPEG, Man.—During the year ending July 31, 1927, Canada's exports of wheat amounted to 251,265,788 bushels, and of wheat flour to 9,217,724 barrels. This is the third largest total in the past seven years. Most of the exported wheat and flour moved through United States ports. Approximately three-quarters of the shipments were for the United Kingdom. A total of 7,624,566 bushels of wheat and flour were sold in the United States. Of the overseas shipments, 136,245,656 bushels moved through United States ports and only 107,289,566 were shipped from Canadian ports.

CANADIAN BANK DEPOSITORS VERY FULLY PROTECTED
TORONTO, Ont.—It is pointed out by "Saturday Night" (quoting from Bradstreet's figures) that while in the United States there were 1,729 bank suspensions in the three years of 1924 to 1926 involving liabilities of $610,402, 328 Canadian depositors lost not one single dollar through the failure of banks under the branch system for the same reason that there have been no bank failures during the three years in question.

HEARD ON THE STREET

"While travelling down to Gleichen a few nights ago, Tony Crogan happened to get in conversation with a very charming widow with whom he had gallantly shared his seat. Soon they were engaged in a most interesting conversation, in which she related much of her early life history, and her future outlook. Everything was most interesting to Tony until finally she told that she had disposed of three husbands up to date, and had great hopes for the future. "A most peculiar thing," said the lady, "is that all my husbands were named William." "Oh," replied Tony, "I'll say you have been a clever 'Bill' collector. Just then the train was pulling into Gleichen, and he was unable to learn anything more regarding her plans for the future."

Harold Smith, popularly known as Smithy, who removed recently to Coronation, is a great lover of ponies, and also has been very popular with the fair sex.

On a recent Sunday night he attended church, accompanied by his new flame, and during the service he fell asleep.

Awakening suddenly during the sermon, he yawned and looked around him when his eye caught the hymn number board, when he exclaimed in quite an audible whisper: "My goodness, what a poor field, only four numbers—can't make anything out of that race."

Jim Moran and Alex Gray make many fishing trips together, and are quite fond of joshing each other. Jim always boasts that he is much a better fisherman. Jim made a wager that whoever caught the first fish would pay for dinner at Mike Brown's Shamrock restaurant. Jim remaining true to his nationality, much to the distress of his Scotch companion. Would you believe it, Alex had three bites, and wouldn't pull in the fish, said Jim. "Then you lost, Jim," remarked the reporter.

"No," said the happy Irishman, "I was a draw, my hook wasn't baited."

"Who will drive this car away for you," read the placard on a dilapidated automobile in a Calgary dealer's yard. A man passed, read it through twice, then entered the establishment.

"I'll take a chance," he offered, "where's the prize money?"

"Your husband, madam, is suffering from voluntary inertia," said the doctor.

"Poor dear! And I accused him all along of being lazy!"

This does not refer to Bill Wilkins.

Wife: "Well, dear, I shall have to do the cooking now. Cook left without warning this afternoon."

Husband: "Not exactly without warning. She told me this morning I had better bring home some dyspepsia tablets, but I didn't quite understand what she meant."

An editor dropped into church for the first time in many years. The editor listened for awhile then rushed to his office.

"What are you fellows doing? How about the news from the seat of war?"

"What news?"

"Why, all about the Egyptian army being drowned in the Red Sea. The minister in at the church knows all about it, and you have not a word of it in our latest. Rustle around, you fellows, and get out an extra special."

Chuck: "Is my dinner ready mother?"

Mother: "Not yet, dear, it's only half cooked."

Chuck: "Well, can't I have the half that's cooked?"

"Oh, the sin of exaggeration!" exclaimed the speaker. "Would that I could tell you the number of times I have said barrels and barrels of tears over it!"

English Clergyman: "And when you arrive in London, my dear lady, don't fail to see St. Paul's and Westminster Abbey."

Fair American: "You bet, I'll rattle those off, sure; but what I've been hankering to see, is the Church of England."

Mistress (to new maid): "I believe that you have had very little experience."

Maid: "Little experience, when I've had seven places in three months; that's quite some what isn't it?"

She fell into his arms and he was very busy for a few moments. But the tears flowed on.

"Why nothing stop them?" he asked, breathless.

"No," she murmured. "It's my fever, but go on with the treatment."

A slightly isolated gentleman lurched into Bill Williams' restaurant one night and sat down at one of the tables. Holding the menu card upside down he gravely inspected it for several moments. Suddenly, in an excited manner, he yelled, "Waiter, Waiter—Chere quick, send for the manager; there's been a terrible mistake made, a terrible mistake!"

"What is it, sir?" gravely demanded the waiter.

"Just look at this," shouted the man, wildly waving the menu, "these darn food printers at the Standard office have printed thick dining guide down!"

Wilfred: "I don't know, dearest, I dreamed last night that we both were on a huge steamer that was shipwrecked."

She: "What was I wearing?"

Vincent (to his father): "The world is round, isn't it?"

Father: "Yes."

Vincent: "Then if I wanted to go east, I could get there by going west, couldn't I?"

Father: "Yes; and I believe you'll be a taxicab driver when you grow up."

Parent: "What are your prospects if you marry my daughter?"

Smithy: "Excellent, if I marry your daughter, sir."

"Dear" inquired the inquisitive wife "what are you doing in the kitchen?"

"I'm opening a can of tomatoes, if you particularly wish to know," he impatiently rejoined. "And what are you opening it with?"

"Why, with a can opener. Did you think I was using my teeth?" he added savagely. "Oh, no, dear," she sweetly replied; "but I know you are not opening it with prayer."

Pete Teiford was ill, and his friend Jack took a bottle of whisky to him. Jack gave the invalid one glass and said:

"Let's get another one in 15' minutes."

About five minutes elapsed, and then Pete suddenly exclaimed:—

"Yet better let me use the other box, Jack; we hear of one man's death, but none of us."

Bridegroom: "My dear, where in the world did you get this steak, it has a most peculiar flavor."

Bride: "I cannot understand what it is the matter—you know while cooking the fire was a little too hot and I gave it quite a severe burn, but it should be all right, as I immediately treated it with iodine and vasoline."

LIBERATED PRISONER

OBJECTS TO FREEDOM

OTTAWA—Officers of the Department of Justice receive many petitions for the release of men serving terms in prison, but today they heard probably the first request of another kind ever made to them. It was that of a ticket-of-leave man from Portsmouth Penitentiary who wanted to be sent back to the penal institution to complete the unsupervised portion of his term.

The man, No. 30, who asked that his name, for his wife's sake, be not used in the press, was sentenced at Windsor, Ont., for theft from the mails. He had served some 22 months of a three-year sentence when he was released on a ticket-of-leave in May.

He states that he secured a job, determined to live straight, but his past pursued him. His employer found that he had been a convict and discharged him at once. Efforts to secure other work have failed, and now, discouraged, he wants to go back to the penitentiary to serve the 14 months which good behavior had taken off his term.

MR. ROBB

ON THE DOMINION FINANCES

The Winnipeg Free Press says:

The extent of the improvement in the finances of the Dominion since the present government assumed office was dealt with by Hon. J. A. Robb, minister of finance, in an address at Goderich in the recent North-West by-election. Mr. Robb compared the financial budget of 1921—which showed a deficit of over $81,000,000—with the budget he presented to the house for the year ending March last, which showed a deficit of only $1,000,000, a surplus of almost $42,000,000.

He referred to surprises in 1924, 1925, 1926, and 1927. From April 1, 1922, until March 21, 1927, the government had, he contended, reduced the interest-bearing debt $104,215,846.18.

"And," he said, "I make this statement on the authority of a recent careful audit of the public accounts."

"The total annual interest on the debt," he stated, "is $9,297,474.20 less than what you were taxed for and paid in 1922. This, coupled with our economies, has enabled us to make sharp reductions in taxes, and to say to you and to the people of Canada that our policy is to make further reductions in the taxes which the people have borne already too long."

Under the head of tax reduction, Mr. Robb discussed cuts in taxes and duties which had been made in recent years, and then referred to the fulfilment in the budget of 1927 of promises of further "slashes" that had been made in the last election campaign. A 20 per cent. cut was made in the sales tax, 10 per cent. was cut out of the income tax, the stamp taxes were reduced to a single 20-cent charge, and the cheques of 10 and less were entirely exempted.

"All of these reductions were substantial. They were put through parliament in the face of much opposition. What has been the result? Every reduction made has helped industry and production, brought about a greater expansion of business and increased revenues to the Dominion treasury, so that today I am in a position to say to the Canadian people, yes; to the money-lenders of the world, Don't worry about Canadian materialities! Don't believe these dog-day stories published in the Tory press and repeated by Tory orators, that Canada had borrowed $100,000,000 to pay off October-November maturities. We are not going to. We don't need to borrow one dollar. We have the money carefully tucked away ready to pay these maturities out of our revenues."

Referring to the work of the Tar-board, Mr. Robb declared, "The public hearings by this board offer opportunities for high-bidder men, low-bidder men and free traders to come in to face, to put their cards on the table and to discuss matters in a practical common-sense way. It means that a better understanding is obtained and that the men leave the room with a better appreciation of each other, and a better understanding of the problem of the Canadian people. Canada's unity is not achieved simply by binding the provinces together by hoops of steel. It requires a spirit of give and take, so that one and all will prosper."

HON. MR. BROWNE'S VIEWS UPON BRITISH INVESTMENTS

Mr. John Macdonald, late of the Strathmore Standard, writing in the Western Express, has the following article upon Canadian investments:

"Hon. J. E. Brownlee, Premier of the Province of Alberta, Canada, who recently before leaving England made an outspoken statement with regard to Britain's foreign investments in Western Canada, is one of the Dominion's champions. Premier Brownlee just turned forty. His rise has been remarkably rapid. Twenty years ago he came to the West from Ontario with little more than his brief bag. He became associated, as a legal adviser, to the Grain Growers Grain Company, the first big co-operative farmers' movement in Canada, and the remarkable growth of that company owes not a little to his action. When the United Farmers achieved political power in Alberta in 1921, he was selected as Attorney-General, and when Hon. H. H. Greenfield, now Alberta representative in London, resigned the Premiership, Mr. Brownlee was the unanimous choice of the Farmers. He had much to do with the formation of the Alberta Wheat Pool in 1922 and the following year with the formation of the Canadian Wheat Pool. During last year's election he confessed that he derived a great deal of his knowledge of human nature when dealing with University students in Ontario from books from house to house, using a bicycle for transportation.

Mr. Brownlee's expression on the subject of British investments in Canada will be approved by practically all the people of his Province, which has probably the greatest extent of undeveloped resources of any Province in the Dominion. A great amount of American capital is being invested there, especially in oil. The Imperial Oil Company, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Corporation, has several producing wells, and a number of drilling operations are being carried on.

The Province itself has for some years financed the railways in the U.S. markets, and has been able to obtain its loans in most cases at a little less than 5 per cent. interest. Although a Farmer's Government—or perhaps because of it—it has been conservative in its borrowings. Private investors in Alberta government securities can have further assurance when it is stated that the Provincial Treasurer, Hon. B. C. Reid, is a Scot, and an Aberdeen Scot at that. The Attorney-General, Hon. J. F. Lyndon, is an Argyllshire Scot and is also the Provincial Auditor. In fact, about half the members of the Legislature are Scots or of Scotch descent, a fact which has caused the premature Canadians to bewail the predominance of the allies. During the Great War ten per cent. of Alberta's population enlisted for active service. In view of these facts, Albertans feel a justifiable assurance when they find flotations from Germany, Greece, and other European countries, overabundant in the London market, while Canadian offerings find the best terms in the United States.

It is the case, of course, that there have been and still are many "wildcat" flotations offered to the investor in the West. The officials in the Province do all in their power to discourage them, and will be prepared to advise the investor, through their offices in Edmonton or at their London office. Oil and real estate have ever been attractive here, and it is hard to protect an individual against its own cupidity. There are, however, many safe land and industrial investments offered a safe seven and eight per cent. A higher yield than that is of necessity speculative. Offerings in oil shares are to be regarded with extreme caution. The best way for the British investor to speculate in Alberta oil is to sponsor stock offerings, and organize his own companies."

THE RECKLESS SPEED KINGS

The members of the Town Council have been investigating the needs of municipal regulations, that will control the automobile traffic, both in regard to parking, and also speeding and reckless driving within their jurisdiction.

The Secretary-Treasurer has been busy resurrecting all the existing by-laws which have passed from time to time, the conditions of some of which, when applied to present conditions, sound rather humorous.

The members of the Council have been looking up some very important data from other towns and cities, with the hope that from the information that may be obtained, that a very strict and effective by-law may be prepared that will not only protect the town from possible damage suits, but that at the same time will entirely throw the responsibility for any accident upon the reckless driver, through having committed a breach of the by-law.

The penalty for reckless driving should certainly be made a heavy one, that no one can afford to neglect.

The reckless driver not only endangers his own life, which is not so important, but he endangers the life of innocent pedestrians, and even the most careful drivers of other automobiles.

The plea is, that it is so difficult to load these "birds" before an accident occurs, that the necessity of providing the legal machinery, whereby an example may be made of those who are so absolutely inconsiderate of the rights of other citizens.

The most effective preventive measure that has been found in Western Canada is to cancel the license after for a long or short term, upon the driver, which means that neither the convicted party or anyone else may drive the car until the penalty period has passed.

It has been found very effective upon those who are willing to pay money, but really come to terms when the penalty puts the car out of business.

CALGARY PEOPLE IN NORTH SEA SHIP ACCIDENT

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Davidson, of Calgary, were in a ship accident in the North Sea.

Growing over on a crowded ship, leaving port at 2 o'clock in the morning about a mile out, the sister ship coming in crashed into her head-on, striking her just under the captain's bridge. The impact was tremendous, and our boat was immediately engulfed in a cloud of escaping steam. The sides of it were afterwards discovered to have "stove in" like a can of peas that has been hit with a hammer.

The captain's bridge was demolished, and the deck collapsed underneath.

Other boat's steel body was ripped and torn like so much paper for fifteen feet, both above and below water.

We carried six hundred passengers and had only eight lifeboats, one of which was smashed to atoms in the collision. To add to the misery, it was pouring rain. Most people gave up hope in the first ten or fifteen minutes, the listing of our ship was so peculiar.

I have often wondered how I would feel if I were told I must die in a few minutes—Well, I had a chance to find out!

But, I wish you could have seen that crowd—so sign of panic, no loud talk, no bad manners of any kind! Except for the noise of men screaming at the very first, and one or two men were broke out—everybody was dead calm.

About the only words one heard were "Don't leave behind! Don't disobey! Don't disobey! Don't disobey!"

Everyone assumed that the crew knew its business, and waited for orders. The crew worked wisely to launch the boats with the life belts, and the stewards routed every body out who had gone to bed, and made them come up without dressing. These people had life belts from their cabins, and a few others were given some. There were not nearly enough for all, but nobody complained.

After about twenty minutes the order came to stop work at the life boats, and word was passed round, unofficially, that we seemed to have a chance. The pumps began to work, and then someone later, we began to move slowly back to harbor—Frisburg.

Everybody remained calm and dignified until our wrecked boat was tied up safely at the wharf. Then, when all danger was over, their calm disappeared, and you never saw a more excited, eagerly, complaining lot of people.

These are some of the pleasures of travelling! However, we had two minor mishaps in the voyage, which I will write you about some day."

Extract from a letter from Mrs. Davidson.

MORE FAMILIES COMING TO THE LETHBRIDGE DISTRICT

LETHBRIDGE, ALA.—The Canadian Colonization Association has been so successful in the Lethbridge district that it has been decided to place another lot of settlers there this fall. One of the present settlers has placed 120 acres in sugar beets, 35 acres in potatoes and 400 acres in wheat and other crops. It is expected that the return from this fall should be close to $10,000.

ELECTRIC LIGHT CO.
 EXTENDING OPERATIONS

The towers of Arrowwood, Standard, and Rockwood will be supplied with electric current from the Bascasso plant of the United Electric & Engineering Co. if the plans now being formed are brought to a realization. The plans are now before the board of public utility commissioners at Edmonton. After passing the board a franchise must be procured from each village to which current will be supplied. The franchise must be granted by public vote.

The towns of Basasso, Cluny, Gidden, and Strathmore, are now getting current from the Basasso plant. To take care of the increased consumption the three new towns are to have the company will enlarge their auxiliary plant.

New Auxiliary Plant
 Since the old plant burned down about a month ago, the Basasso staff of the company has been busy with the work of installing a new unit. A corrugated sheet iron building has been put up to house the machinery.
 A new unit has been installed, and came on the line for the first time last Saturday evening about 10 o'clock.
 The new unit consists of a three cylinder gas engine of the same type as the old one, with a belt driven generator.
 The old unit is now being repaired and will be ready for use again in about ten days time if the needed repairs arrive when expected.
 The plant is large enough for the installing of a third unit if needed.

REV. MR. HARRIS ADDRESS
 — St. —
 The Rev. H. D. Harris, Secretary of the Canadian Bible Society, addressed a large and attentive audience in the United Church on Sunday evening, and made a strong plea for the support of the Bible Society.
 He declared that at the present time the Bible has been translated into 257 different languages, and despite the fact that it has in recent years come under more severe criticism than any other literary production, its position is stronger than it ever was. Not from criticism, but from respect. Much of the greatness of the British nation has been attributed to the place which the Bible held in the homes of the people, and our chance to be a free and happy and superior nation is due to it.
 A unique feature of the service was the presentation to Mrs. De Witt of a Life Membership Certificate in the society, after which Mr. Lydall sang very feelingly a beautiful and most appropriate solo: "Cling to the Bible My Boy".
 The officers appointed for the ensuing year were as follows: President,
 Mr. G. H. Jones; Secretary-Treasurer,
 Mr. T. H. Gairney; Collectors,
 Mrs. Dewitt, Mrs. Perry, Mr. H. Miller and Mr. J. Weir.
